INSPIRATION / RESEARCH

I was inspired to use Christian for the Bio Site project as he is one of the most interesting people I know. In order to learn more about him I sat down with him for a Q&A to try and gather a more in-depth understanding of his interests, hobbies, and timeline. The previous section lists those questions and answers. During our interview, I was able to learn much about him including his professional and educational background. I inquired about his origins and the various places he has lived. We also discussed his travels and focused on the favorite places he has visited. He traveled a great deal during his time in the military and on his own. I also learned that he values his family and aspires to provide support to them.

In addition, I learned about some of his personal interests such as what movies or tv shows he enjoys the most. I also learned more about his hobbies and preferred activities. I gained a good bit of information from just the questions alone. However, I wanted to get his opinion on the potential style and layout of the website, so we sat down and discussed the possibilities. I wanted the color palate and overall aesthetic of the website to be something that would be appealing to the individual who happens to be the topic of said website. I gathered his input on the color scheme and some layout options. We decided upon a darker color pallet and a background image for the landing page which includes a nature scene. This scene was chosen to relate to his current home in Denver as it is of mountains and his love of the outdoors. The underlying tone of the design is also muted and natural which I feel matches his serious and warm personality. My research also included gathering some images for the site. These images included are approved by him and the subject matter relates to his travels and hobbies.
